Subject: Microsoft Settlement

As somebody that will be affected by the outcome of the ongoing litigation between the US and Microsoft I have watched the ebb and flow very closely.

Considering the superb performance of the US's team during the District Court and Appellate phase I am demoralised at the current state of the proposed agreement between Microsoft and the US. Feel that the argument for a stronger negotiating position for the US has been well won, but completely unused.

Therefore, I do not feel that the proposed agreement will satisfactorily protect (1) US consumers nor International consumers.

Yours Sincerely,

Kevin Hine
